DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

1. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

2. Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 1 and 6 both claim “a driving signal including a plurality of pulses provided in a time duration that does not induce the transducer to operate in the resonant mode” in lines 7-8 is unclear and indefinite. The examiner has applied the prior art as best as possible, but Applicant should replace this language with language that more clearly conveys what the pulses are to accomplish.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-12 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102 (e) as being anticipated by Cimino (U.S.6,027,515).

Art Unit: 3731

Regarding claims 1 and 6, Cimino shows in figures 1, 2a, 2b and abstract, a circuit (30) is coupled to a transducer (12) that can drive a cutting element (13), wherein the transducer (12) has a frequency which can operate in a resonant mode (col. 7 lines 28-31); wherein the control circuit (30) provides a driving signal to the transducer (12); wherein said driving signal includes a plurality of pulses (col. 7 lines 10-13) is inherently capable in a time duration that does not induce the transducer (12) to operate in the resonant mode.

Regarding claims 2 and 7, Cimino shows in figures 2a, 2b, wherein the pulses (col. 3 lines 53-60) are provided in a plurality of packets that are separated by pauses (figures 2a, 2b).

Regarding claims 3 and 8, Cimino shows in figures 2a, 2b, wherein the pulses have a frequency approximately at the natural frequency of the cutting element (13).

Regarding claims 4-5, 9 and 12, Cimino shows in figures 2a, 2b, wherein each packet has a time duration less than about 1 milliseconds (col. 4 lines 61-66); wherein each pause has a time duration that prevents a significant amount of heat by the cutting element (13).

Regarding claims 10 and 11, Cimino shows in figure 1, wherein the resonant mode is in an ultrasonic frequency range (col. 3 lines 53-60); and wherein the cutting element (13) is a tip (fig. 1, #14).

Claims 29,32,35,38,41,44,45,48,53,56,59 and 62 are rejected under 35 U.S.C .102 (e) as being anticipated by Kellogg et al (U.S.5,897,569).

Art Unit: 3731

Kellogg et al show in figures 1, 4, 5 and abstract, col. 3 lines 19-45, a console (30) can be coupled to a hand piece (80) that has a reciprocating tip (88); wherein a control circuit (36) that is coupled to the console (30) and generates packet of pulses; wherein each packet is separated by a pause period of no pulses (col. 11 lines 25-67) so that the tip (88) does not generate heat that denatures the tissue (col. 3 lines 24-45).

Regarding claims 44 and 48, wherein the temperature does not exceed 45 degrees centigrade (col. 3 lines 29-34).

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 30-31,33-34,36-37,39-40,42-43,46-47,54-55,57-58 and 60-61 are rejected under 35 U.S.C 103 (a) as being unpatentable over Kellogg et al (5,897,569) in view of Cimino(6,027,515).

Regarding claims 30-31,33-34,36-37,39-40,42-43,46-47,54-55,57-58 and 60-61, Kellogg et al disclose the invention substantially as claimed. However, Kellogg et al do not disclose each packet has a time duration between 0.5-5.0 milliseconds. Furthermore, each pause period has a time duration between 3.5-50 millisecond. Cimino teaches each packet has a time duration between 0.5-5.0 milliseconds and each pause period has a time duration between 3.5-50 millisecond (col. 8 lines 16-24).

Art Unit: 3731

It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the same time the invention was made to modify Kellogg et al by adding each packet has a time duration between 0.5-5.0 milliseconds and each pause period has a time duration between 3.5-50 millisecond as taught by Cimino in order to minimize the substantial amount of heat at the cutting tip and improve the reliability of the device.

Conclusion
